diocese, John McClosky was born in Brooklyn, and served as a boy at mass in St. Peter's clurch, in Barclay street. His ordination as a priest, fifty years ago, took place in the old. St. Patrick's enthedral. Ten years later he was consecrated bishop of Albany. He remained there seventeen years and then became first bishop, then archbishop, and flually cardinal archbishop of New York.

FIRST CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH. Dr. Rankin's Discourse Last Night on Bible Ferischism.

In the morning Dr. Rankin preached to a crowded house on the "Missionary, David Tappan Stoddard, of Persia," and in the ovening on "Bible Fetischism." Fetischism is the lowest kind of superstition. Man is superstitious because he is depraved. Conscience makes cowards of us all, but not of the bein; who is in harmony with God. The heathens have the most fetischism. They are afraid at God's tokens. They have a fetisch respecting comets and all the celestial wonders. Some people have a church fetisch. They think the wood and the bricks and the pews and the publit too seved for ordinary every day uses. The house of God may be properly used for anything that helps a man to a better understanding or himself, the world, or the Maker of the world. It is no desecration of God's house to talk in it about inforior animals. The same sort of feeling some people have about the Bible, as though there were some holy soreery about it. We want to carry it in our trunks when we travel. Even the late governor of Massachusetts felt better to have one in the executive chamber of the Puritan commonwealth. is the lowest kind of superstition. Man is tive chamber of the Puritan commonwealth. There is a proper reverence for the Bible. It is not evinced by opening it at random for some motto text—by cutting it to decide whether we shall do this or that. It is not the outward investme of the Bible that is hely. To have been owned by father or mother does not make it hely. The text, the version, the translation of the Bible are not hely. Every, man has a right to judge wether he will read the Bible in the the Anglo-Saxon version of King James, or the Latinized English of the Dousy, or some other version. Frederick William Faber says the stronghold of English Protestantism is the uncommon beauty and marvelous English of the Protestant Bible, its felicities seam to be things rather than words. The authorized version tant Bible. Its felicities seem to be things rather than words. The authorized version of the Bible was put into English by the martyrs. It was baptized in their blood. They went to the stake for the privilege of giving it to us and our chlidren. The men of this generation go to the stake for other things. Scholarship is good, so also is sitting at the feet of Jesus. There is doubtless a scholarship fetisch as well as a Bible one, and that fetisch may be one of our Bible one, and that fetisch may be one of our

This lecture was the first of a series backing up the recent criticism of the Bible by what is called the higher criticism. The next ture will discuss the respect in which the is a proper subject of criticism.

The Washington E!ks.

There wis a merry gathering of Elks and their friends at Moor's hall, Ninth street, last night. The occasion was a social by Washington Lodge of Elks. Tables laden with all kinds of tempting edibles were spread in the back rooms, while liquid refreakments were passed about at short intervals by special committees. The assemblage included many professional men, actors, and musicians, ail of whom participated in an impromptu programme. The Elks polka, a new air, was performed on the piano by Mr. R. Hale on Health. Dr. Hale delivered an illustrated lecture on "Science and Health," Saturday evening at his residence, 723 Twelfth street northat his residence, 723 Twelfth street north-west. He gave several instructive experi-ments while delivering a short discourse on the air as it should be in sick rooms. As yet, he said, no means have been devised for extricating exygan from the atmosphere. If it could be generated by an instrument sim-ilar to the steam atomizer, placed in the sick room, it would remove the danger from ail pulmonary complaints. Thirry per cent, of the total deaths of all the 3,000 aliments the human race is subject to is caused by pul-monary complaints.

Take No Thought of the Morrow. In the church of Our Father yesterday Rev. Alex. Kent presched from Matthew vi. 34: "Take, therefore, no thought for the morrow." The paster put a different inter-pretation on the text from the two generally accepted significations. His idea of it was that no young man starting in life should ask himself where he can get the most for the least. He ought to ask: "Where can I put these gifts of mine where they may be of the greatest good to mankind?"

Beating His Wife. At 12:30 o'clock last night Sergt. Heffner, of the fifth precinct, arrested Henry Wendell, a restaurant keeper on D, near Twelfth street northwest, for beating his wife. Wendell also smashed up things generally in his bar room, and threw mustard all over his wife's clothing, and covered himself with the same.
